Founded in 1769, St. Charles, Missouri, is the third oldest city west of the Mississippi and was the first capital of Missouri. Located adjacent to the Missouri River, St. Charles County has over 77,000 residents in a 3 mile radius and is the 2nd largest city in the county. In 2018, St. Charles won recognition in Money Magazine as being among the 50 Best Places to live in the country.

In the past six years, the city has witnessed over $560 million of new development. St. Charles' expected job growth rate from 2017 to 2022 is more than 8 percent. The City of St. Charles is home to the regional offices of Coca Cola Enterprises, Sysco and American Freightways. Some of the top employers in St. Charles include Ameristar Casinos, Boeing, SSM St. Joseph Health Center, Bass Pro and Lindenwood University (6,903 students).

St. Charles serves as the county seat of St. Charles County. In the past few decades, St. Charles County has been recognized as a leader in metro St. Louis and the Midwest for housing starts, job creation, transportation improvements and expanding community amenities as well as business and population growth. It has been the fastest growing county in the state since 1980.
